

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

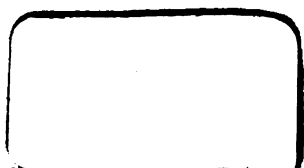

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

IN the late summer of 1891 I was sent to the baths of Tarasp in the Lower Engadine, where, aside from the small portion of the day devoted to the waters, I soon found time hanging heavy on my hands. One morning I walked to the neighboring village of Schulz, and while there chanced to see, in a window of the principal shop, some books in the Romaunsch, or Rhaeto-romanian language. They brought to my mind the little I had read in regard to that decadent tongue, which, with variations of form, so long held its own throughout the border region of German and Italian speech—in the higher recesses of the valley of the Inn, and along the steeply-sloping shores of the upper Rhine; and which, extending in the shape of linguistic islets into remote parts of the Tyrol, finally becomes known to us, on the confines of Austria and Italy, as the Friulan. I at once bought and carried back to my hotel the score of small volumes—chiefly school-books—which were on sale at the shop in Schulz, and wrote to Leipsic, the afternoon of the same day, for a Rhaeto-romanian bibliography and dictionary, if such were to be had. By return of post two or three books of reference, including Dr. Boehmer's excellent Verzeichniss rätoromanischer Litteratur, were at my disposal. Meanwhile I had been joined by an American friend,—who, like myself, had discarded the title of professor, but still felt a lively interest in philological pursuits—and together we made daily excursions to the picturesque villages overhanging the rapid waters of the Inn. On entering a hamlet we invariably asked at the first door for old Romaunsch books. The purport of our visit to the place became known in an incredibly brief space of time. Within a quarter of an hour, women, gathering up their aprons laden with dusty volumes, and boys bearing baskets equally overflowing, were running in search of us from all quarters. We seated ourselves at a table in the first convenient room; each person's bundle of books was handed to me for examination; my companion checked off, in Dr. Boehmer's list, the titles not previously acquired; and I then offered, for the desired volumes of each lot, what I deemed a proper sum, which was, often at once and almost always ultimately, accepted. So the collection grew daily. The evenings were passed partly in collating and cataloguing our purchases, and in forwarding them to London to be bound, partly in correspondence with German and Italian dealers in old books,—several of whom had in stock a shelf or two of Rhaeto-romanica works,—and especially with the booksellers of Innsbruck, Trent, Udine, and Gorizia, in which cities most of the Rhaeto-romanica literature emanating from the Tyrol and from Friuli first sees the light. Of course we had a full measure of the delight which the collector takes in the examination and re-examination of his treasures—in supplying missing leaves or plates, in patching together fragments of various imperfect copies, in completing and arranging files of periodicals, in studying the distinguishing characteristics of editions, in hunting up unstated dates, in solving anonymous and pseudonymous problems, and in endeavoring to make sense of the alphabetical vagaries and chirographic flourishes of scribes who wrote in a tongue which we, at least, only half understood. It was a golden moment when we could record a title or an edition not cited by the industrious Dr. Boehmer.

At the end of a fortnight we took up our quarters for ten days at St. Moritz, and explored, in the same way, the villages of the Upper Engadine. Returning thence to Chur we made a trip or two to the Upper-Rhenish region, where we found a different religion prevailing, and were obliged to learn a new series of bibliographical facts bearing upon Catholic tracts and service-books, legends of saints and litanies of the Virgin. The book-shops of Chur yielded some additions; those of Zürich proved to be of little avail. When I reached Heidelberg I discovered a few packages from German antiquarians awaiting me, and from that favored university town—a little more than five weeks after my first purchases for the collection here catalogued were made—I sent my last acquisitions to the London binder.

Imperfect manuscript volume containing, first, a collection of hymns, some of which are certainly, and all are probably composed by Casparus Hansius, sometime pastor of the church of Sent, his name being given in the following stanza, at the end of the Register sopra las canzuns:

Certa sagitA, fideS, sPes nervus
Ara, amoR xai arcUS
Hæc sola, ad celum, jaNua,
Scala, meta, triuNphUS.
P. Eccl. Sentinæ

Anno a reparata salutis, 1778, 3 Febr.
